Abstract

Imagine having about 1500 swallows staying at the first 2000 ft of a runway from 09:30 to approximately 16:00 every day for about 15-20 days!

What do you think could cause this unique bird behaviour? How would you deal with this situation? Would you cancel all scheduled flights or would you find an effective way to make the birds go away?

We are waiting for your idea a suggestion!
